Re: D.T.E. 01-20 - Unbundled Network Elements and

Avoided Cost Discount for Resale Services

Dear Ms. Chin:

Enclosed please find a copy of the documentation for Verizon Massachusetts' TELRIC studies that the Company considers proprietary. The proprietary materials consist of four separate envelopes within the attached package.

Envelope # 1 contains a CD of the VCost Development system and Loop Cost Analysis Model.

Envelope # 2 contains a CD of the SCIC/MO and SCIN/IN cost model and related paper documentation containing instructions.

Envelope # 3 contains a ZIP disk drive of Telecordia's CCSCIS costing model and instructions on for running the model.

Envelope # 4 is a disk and paper copy that is labeled Part C-P, Switch Discount Development. This document includes switch material purchases by Verizon.

The materials in Envelopes #2, #3 and #4 contain information that is proprietary to third-party vendors.
